

“BUSINESS NETWORKING” is the process of building mutually beneficial relationships with other business people, prospective clients and customers, as well as with providers of strategic business services and products. The foundation of a successful business network rests upon the idea that these relationships begin — and continue to remain — mutually beneficial.

At CBX, we feel that “listening” is one of the most important benefits that we have to offer our members, prospective members and guests. By regularly providing a “collective ear”, CBX is able to simultaneously address the needs of both the individual and the group, while also promoting the formation of mutually beneficial relationships.
